Investment performance information

The value of an investment in the company, and any income derived from it, may fluctuate and can go down as well as up depending on a number of factors. The main factors likely to affect future returns from an investment in the company include:

Performance Information – Main Factors

The product is invested in smaller Asian quoted companies with market capitalisations under US$5,000m, whilst this market segment has historically shown the potential for strong growth compared to larger companies, the risks of investing in less established, more domestically oriented smaller companies, and the exposure to emerging market country and currency risk should be taken into consideration prior to investing. Please also see relevant performance factors described below.

Performance Information - Comparator

The performance of the product may be compared to the total return of the MSCI AC Asia ex Japan Small Cap index in Sterling terms. In regards to how the portfolio may compare to the benchmark index in terms of performance and volatility, the benchmark index is not used to limit or constrain how the portfolio is constructed. The benchmark index has been identified as a means by which investors can compare the product's performance and has been chosen because its constituents most closely represent the scope of the portfolio's investable assets. The investment manager has discretion to invest away from the benchmark and sector requirements, and without regard to the weighting of benchmark assets, in order to take advantage of specific investment opportunities. As a result, there is scope for the performance of the portfolio to materially deviate from the performance and volatility of the benchmark index.

Performance Information – Higher Returns

A scenario for higher returns would be positive performance from the underlying stocks in the Asia Pacific region (ex Japan), potentially driven by positive fundamentals and macro environment.

Performance Information – Lower Returns or Loss

A scenario for lower returns would be negative or subdued performance from the underlying stocks in the Asia Pacific region (ex Japan), potentially driven by negative fundamentals and investor sentiment in the region.

Performance Information - Adverse Conditions

Adverse conditions would be a sharp fall in global markets, potentially driven by a global slowdown or reduction in investor confidence, particularly, in the Asia Pacific (ex Japan) region. This may result in the value of the product also decreasing sharply, and depending on when you invest and the share price at the time of investment, there may be a material fall in the value of your investment under severely adverse market conditions should you redeem.

What happens if The Scottish Oriental Smaller Companies Trust Plc is unable to pay out?
