

Key Investor Information

This document provides you with key investor information about this Fund. It is not marketing material. The information is required by law to help you understand the nature and the risks of investing in this Fund. You are advised to read it so you can make an informed decision about whether to invest.

Harding Loevner Emerging Markets Ex China Equity Fund (the "Fund"): US Dollar Class A (unhedged)

The Fund is a sub-fund of Harding Loevner Funds plc (the "Company")

ISIN: IE000003FK58

The Company has appointed Waystone Management Company (IE) Limited (the "Manager") as its management company.

Objectives and Investment Policy

The Fund's investment objective is to achieve long-term capital appreciation by investing primarily equities of companies based in emerging market.

The Fund will invest in stocks and equity related securities of issuers based in emerging markets in Asia, Latin America, Europe, the Middle East and Africa.

The Fund will also invest (up to 10% of its Net Asset Value) in open-ended collective investment schemes which shall be mainly in the form of exchange traded funds and shall be listed and traded in the US and Europe.

Under normal circumstances at least 80% of the Fund's net assets will be invested in the foregoing instruments, i.e., freely transferable equity and equity-related securities of issuers based in emerging markets. The Fund will be highly diversified and therefore will not be concentrating on any specific regions or economic sectors. It will pursue a policy of active stock selection in the markets in which it operates.

Equity related securities include, but are not limited to, common stocks, preferred stocks, warrants (not more than 5% of the Fund's Net Asset Value), rights, convertible securities, depositary receipts, equity-linked notes and participatory notes. Warrants are securities that give the holder the right to purchase securities from the issuer at a specific price within a certain timeframe. Rights give shareholders in a company the option to purchase new shares issued by that company at a predetermined price in proportion to the number of shares already owned. Convertible securities are securities, usually bonds or preferred shares, that can be converted into common stock. Depositary receipts are financial instruments issued by a bank which provide a return on the shares and stocks they represent. Equity-linked notes and participatory notes (p-notes) are financial instruments which may be used by a Fund to gain indirect exposure to various equity markets in countries where direct investment is either impossible or difficult due to local investment restrictions.

The Fund is classified as an Article 8 financial product under the SFDR.

The Fund promotes the environmental characteristic of energy transition management and/or the social characteristic of social responsibility. Investee companies must also follow good governance practices in accordance with Article 8 of SFDR. The Fund does not have sustainable investment as its investment objective.

Your shares do not pay you income, instead the Fund reinvests income to grow your capital.

Risk and Reward Profile

- Historical data may not be a reliable indication for the future.
- The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may shift over time.
- The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.

The indicator opposite does not take account of the following risks of investing in the Fund:

Credit and counterparty risk - there is a risk that a counterparty to a derivatives contract may not be able to meet interest, principal or settlement payments or otherwise honour its obligations.

Liquidity risk - it may become difficult to sell the Fund's assets at any given time for a reasonable price.

Market risk - certain stocks may decline in value more than the overall stock market and some markets may become illiquid or highly volatile.

Currency risk - the Fund may invest in securities that are issued in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund.

ESG Integration Risk - Integrating ESG risks and opportunities may impact the Fund's performance, may require subjective analysis and may be difficult if data about a particular company is limited.

Derivatives risk - the complexity and rapidly changing structure of derivatives markets may increase the possibility of market losses.

The Fund invests in emerging and frontier markets which carry higher than average investment risks and the Fund may have problems or delays in having its investments returned when required.

For more information on risks, please see the section entitled 'Risk factors' in the Prospectus.
